The Long Island System Users Group receives $2,000 grant to further their education goals

The Long Island System Users Group (LISUG), based on Long Island, NY, has received a $2,000 grant from Maxava iFoundation to promote and strengthen the IBM i community.

Maxava iFoundation has been established to provide assistance to non-for-profit organizations working to grow and strengthen the IBM i community. IBM i grants are designed specifically to promote user groups in the general knowledge and free exchange of knowledge, ideas, and skills of the IBM i community.

The Maxava grant will allow LISUG to host in depth workshops and to offset speaker expenses.

Founded in 1984, LISUG is one of the largest user groups in the country. Their focus is to educate all aspects of the IBM i through speakers and networking during monthly meetings, and its annual education day held in May.
